addressed to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, signed W. J. Connel "relating to the Sanitary State of the Town of Galway; and that

Report of Visiting Committee - 5th December, 1870.

Members Present - Mr. Harrison, James Davis, John Gill, E. D. Burke, and James Fahy. The Committee are of opinion that the expense of rebuilding the sheds may be avoided by the following arrangement: -

The ward now used as a day room for infirm women may be set apart as a nursery for married women, by closing the communication between it and the inner infirm ward, and opening a door from the latter into the women's yard, which should be protected by a porch for shelter.

The empty dormitory over head will answer as a sleeping apartments for the Nurses and their children, and it would add to the comfort and convenience of this to make a stair case from the lower to the upper room same as in the adjoining apartment.

The shed now occupied by married nursing women will answer for the women with illegitimate children, and afford the advantage of removing this class from the shed in the girls yard.

The shed in the women's yard will also afford sufficient accommodation, if required, for the orphans and deserted children under 5 years of age.
