In the village of Ballycleary	I endeavoured to trace the origin of the Fever to the polluted state of the wells in that village, animals had free access to the well and rendered it unfit for drinking. I had the well surrounded by a high and strong wall which shall prevent its future pollution.

I am happy to be able to inform you now that the Kinnaird Dispensary District is perfectly free from Fever and all other contagious diseases.

Gentlemen - In reply to your letter of the 14th inst requiring me to furnish you with a report of the Sanitary Condition, drainage &c, of Kinnaird for the information of the Local Govt Board - I beg to inform you that the health of Kinnaird is and has been remarkably good. The Board request the Guardians will obtain a report from the Medical Officer whether in his opinion for the protection of public health or the maintenance of public decency or to prevent a violation of the respect due to the remains of deceased persons, this Burial ground should be closed against future interments.

The following report was submitted by the Medical Officer of Health:—
Gentlemen— In compliance with your request conveyed to me by your Clerk, I beg to report that I made a careful inspection of Kilbessanty graveyard yesterday, and am still of opinion that it does not afford sufficient accommodation for the disposal of the dead in a convenient, discreet, and healthy manner. In no part of it could I find unoccupied sufficient space for the sinking of a single grave except a small bushy spot about its centre which appeared to me to be a mass of rocks which would render such an operation difficult if not impossible.

Many of the graves too, appeared to be too full to admit of further burial within them without infringing on the laws of decency and health, while others appeared as if they could afford further accommodation without such infringement.

I recommend you not to close it but to procure more ground so as to afford sufficient accommodation to those who may require it either because they have no graves or because the ones they have are too full to admit of further burial.
