August

The image shows a faint grid or ledger table on aged, yellowed paper. A prominent diagonal line runs from the top-left towards the bottom-right. A horizontal line is drawn across the middle of the page, with the word "August" written in cursive above it. A vertical line is drawn on the right side of the page, intersecting the horizontal line. The grid consists of approximately 10 columns and 10 rows, though the lines are very light and difficult to discern. The paper is heavily stained and has a rough, torn edge on the left side.

THE HISTORY OF GALWAY
FROM THE EARLIEST PERIODS TO THE PRESENT
BY JOHN O'NEILL

THE HISTORY OF GALWAY

The history of Galway is a subject of great interest and importance. It is a city of ancient origin, and its history is full of incidents of interest and importance. The city was founded by the Normans in the year 1169, and has since that time been a seat of power and influence. It has been the scene of many battles and sieges, and has played an important part in the history of Ireland.
